This past winter, I was incredibly fortunate to attend the Dressage4Kids Winter Intensive Training Program. During my time at WIT, I learned so much as a rider and as a person. The program taught me the importance of responsibility, accountability, independence, and dedication, while also giving me the opportunity to learn from incredible trainers and meet other young riders who share the same passion for dressage.

I am extremely grateful to Renee Isler for the scholarship she awarded me, which made it possible for me to attend WIT 2026. Her generosity gave me an opportunity that I will always be thankful for. Scholarships like Renee's help make experiences like WIT accessible to young riders and allow us to grow both inside and outside of the arena.

WIT had a lasting impact on me. I came home with new knowledge and skills that I can continue to apply to my riding, but I also became more independent and confident in myself. One of the most meaningful parts of the experience was the friendships I made with other young riders. The connections I made at WIT are something I will carry with me for years.

I am incredibly thankful to Renee Isler for helping make this experience possible for me. Her support allowed me to attend a program that taught me so much and gave me many memories, friendships, and lessons that I will never forget.

Kind Regards,
Zoe Lewis
